

2017 ENTRY FORM

TECHNOLOGY ROI AWARDS

About the awards

Started in 2002, the annual ROI Awards recognizes end-user organizations whose deployments of specific IT solutions have achieved exceptional financial and business results. Upon submission, each project is independently assessed by a Nucleus Research analyst and a complete ROI and TCO assessment is generated. The ten organizations whose projects achieved the greatest return on investment will be announced as the winners.

Eligibility

Corporations, non-profits, and governmental and educational organizations are invited to nominate IT projects. Eligible projects must have been installed and in operation for at least six months from the date of nomination. There is no cost to submit a nomination and all submissions will be reviewed by a Nucleus Research analyst.
